the Shop Rag

A monthly publication filled with industry news, maintenance and safety tips, upcoming events, special coupons, and more!

your car, flash your lights, or even honk your horn. Now it can all be done remotely, far away from your car. Some cars have no key at all and just use an app. This is one more function added to your phone and one less thing to carry around - progress...

Cameras Cameras Everywhere

We have gone from back up cameras to 360-degree cameras covering the entire perimeter of your car. Now we are seeing cameras move to the inside of your car. Honda calls their rear seat cameras "CabinWatch" which now gives a driver the ability to check on rear seat passengers or watch the kids without having to turn their head or move their rear-view mirrors. Some Chevy model cars now have a dash camera that uses a "valet mode" for monitoring parking valets as they drive off and out of sight with your car.

Smart Home Technology to Smart Cars...

There is a move in the auto industry similar to the evolution of "smart home" technology allowing you to use phone apps to control features within your home from wherever you may be and use cameras to monitor both inside and outside your home.

Apps to Control Cars

More and more vehicles are being equipped with apps that allow you to control certain functions for your car. Have you ever thought that you would be able to use your smart phone to unlock and start

HAPPY 4TH OF JULY!

The Graeves family wishes you a Happy and Safe 4th of July!

Car Care "Tip of the Month"

As the outdoor temperature continues to rise, the interior temperature of your car can become deadly. Even an outside temperature of 70° F can produce a life-threatening interior temperature. During this time of year, it is especially important to take extra precautions when traveling with children and family pets.

Where & When are the 4th of July Festivities?
