Active Recalls?

Do you know if your car has any active recalls from the manufacturer? One easy way to find out is the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's (NHTSA) website:

<https://www.nhtsa.gov/recalls>

Here, you can search on any active recalls for vehicles, car seats, tires and equipment. All you need to search for auto recalls is your license plate number, Vehicle Identification Number (VIN), or year-make-model of your vehicle. As an alternative, you can always contact your local dealer for your model vehicle. Not all recalls are critical and may not be worth the time to complete, but it is always better to know if you or your passengers' safety could be at risk.

Car Safety Tip of the Month!

Stuck in the Mud?

When stuck in mud, don't make the problem worse by damaging an expensive component. Gently rocking in an attempt to free your car is fine. But if it looks as though you're really stuck, don't keep at it. Throwing your car from forward to reverse repeatedly, as well as spinning tires at high speeds, can generate lots of heat and spells trouble for transmissions, clutches, and differentials. It may be cheaper in the long run to call the tow truck rather than risk big repair bills down the road. It's a good idea to carry a traction aid in the trunk, such as sand, gravel, or cat litter.
